The Early Years Foundation Stage is a term defined in Section 39 of the British government's Childcare Act 2006. The EYFS comprises a set of Welfare Requirements and a set of Learning and Development Requirements, which must be followed by providers of care for children under five years old – the age of compulsory education in the United Kingdom. The Welfare and Learning and Development requirements are not specified in the act but in separate orders. The legislation took effect from ...

Children are assessed twice during the Early Years Foundation Stage. The first of these assessments comes between their 2nd and 3rd birthdays and is carried out by either a health visitor or an early years practitioner. The assessment should identify the child's strengths along with any areas where they are struggling.

~~What is the Early Years Foundation Stage?~~

The Foundation Stage also endorses good early years practice where teachers have more flexibility in terms of what they teach. This flexibility allows teachers to follow the interests of the children, encouraging them to see links in their learning and to appreciate that the skills they learn in one area can be applied elsewhere.
